The vitality of such veterans as ex-Senator Simon Cameron is so impressed on the public, says the New York Mail, that people are slow to believe that they are actually passing away, even when twenty years overdue at the cemetery. It is a heretofore fact, in his case, that this is the time when he has been best. Since the time when he was master of the Pennsylvania delegation to the Chicago convention that nominated Lincoln as candidate for the presidency, and when he completed his public service as secretary of war and minister to Russia, he has enjoyed the repose of a political eagle, in rural retirement, but near enough to the centers of politics to keep in pleasant contact with the men in active life. Gen. Cameron, during the past ten years, has been a signal proof of the fact that Americans who have passed the eighty line are as well preserved, as bright intellectually, as much interested in the events and affairs of the day, as capable of enjoying good dinners and as interesting, as any men of their age in the world.

The Madison Journal—It has been said by some that the Johnstown, Pennsylvania, disaster has had few equals, but history tells us of much more of a hundred of similar and more horrible disasters. In 353, in England, 3,000 persons were drowned. In 1421 seventy-two towns and cities in Holland were flooded and 100,000 persons lost their lives, and in 1530 about 430,000 were lost by floods also in Holland. Another, in 1811, when twenty-four villages were swept away. In 1833, in China, there was a flood caused by a heavy rain-fall, and 10,000 houses were swept away and fully 1,000,000 lives were lost. Over 20,000 people lost their lives in India by flood at one time. It has happened at many times that from 1,000 to 5,000 people have lost their lives in deluges, but the greatest of all these horrible events was the flood in China in December, 1877, when the water flooded about 10,000 square miles, and 3,000,000 people were made homeless and 730,000 lost their lives.

The independent republican movement in South Carolina has been investigated by a number of prominent Massachusetts republicans, including ex-governor Claiborne, ex-governor Long and E. H. Copen, and the report of their agent with their endorsement, is now given to the public. The condition of things in South Carolina, as set forth in Mr. Dudley's seemingly unprejudiced and judicial statement, is such as to challenge the attention of all republicans who are desirous of bettering the party's standing there. The independent republican movement does not aim to establish a white man's party, but to give an equal chance to both negroes and whites, and to put an end to the frauds and outrages upon the ballot which alone made the state democratic.

The longest legislative session ever held in Connecticut came to an end last week. In general interest the secret ballot law, which Governor Bimley signed on Saturday, easily takes precedence. This is by no means all that could be desired, but it is a step in the right direction and is calculated to do much toward securing purity of elections. Connecticut has not been equal to its opportunity in this matter this year; but the way has been paved for a more adequate law when the next legislature meets in 1891.

CAMP 20 HAS DISBANDED.ITS RECORDS ARE PROBABLY DESTROYED.*District Officer Spellman's Strange Action—Concealment of Description Sent Out—Another Man Wanted.

CHICAGO, June 26.—This morning State's Attorney Longenecker sent for John F. Beggs, the lawyer, Alexander Sullivan's young friend responded to the call, and for two hours the two had an earnest conference in regard to Mr. Beggs' knowledge of the inner workings of Camp 20. Just what was said can not be told, but it is pretty well understood that the State's Attorney questioned Beggs far more closely than did the Attorney's juror. Beggs was as non-committal as he was on the witness stand. He forgot what- ever it was not convenient for him to know. Later in the day the State's Attorney had an interview with Sup't. Hubbard, who had much to tell him of the story told by Detective Palmer's squealer about Camp 20. The State's Attorney admitted having received a letter naming the inner trial committee appointed by Beggs, but further than that he would not say. That he has been informed about the workings of the inner circle now is certain.

The queer course pursued by Mr. Ed- ward Spellman of Peoria, somewhat disconcerts him. The State's Attorney has been trying for several days to get at the records of Camp 20, with a view to sum- moning every member before the grand jury. The records have mysteriously disappeared. The secretaries, O'Connor and Cannon, do not know where they are, and it is hinted that they are destroyed. It is stated by friends of the murdered man that Edward Spellman prepared the way for this destruction by disbanding the camp Monday. The camp being dis- banded, it follows that the records have been burned, just as the records of the Clan-na-Gael were burned at the Boston convention.

Mr. Longenecker wanted an explanation from Spellman on these points, and made out a subpoena for him. But Spellman had left for some parts unknown Monday. Mr. Longenecker wants Spellman, and worse than ever, and said that if he could not be found in the city a man would be sent to Peoria to fetch him.

But the records are not essential to a thorough investigation of Camp 20. Mr. Longenecker has been furnished with a list of the members by a former officer. Two policemen who belonged have assisted him, and he will be able to obtain all the information he may desire before the grand jury.

The police have not yet received definite information that Cooney has been arrested. Several witnesses, however, have been looked up, and it is believed that before very long the suspect will be behind the bars.

The police issued a circular photograph this morning descriptive of Cooney, as follows:

"Patrick Cooney, Irish, about 35 years old, 5 feet 10 inches tall, 140 pounds, chested (48-inch girth), round face, yellow complexion, slightly pock-marked and freckled, light-blue or gray eyes, brown hair and reddish brown mustache. He is an intelligent talker and has a slight English accent, is quick and precise in movements, and acts as though he had a military training."

"He is wanted for the murder of P. H. Cronin. All information should be addressed to George W. Hubbard, general secretary of the Chicago convention that nominated Lincoln as candidate for the presidency, and when he completed his public service as secretary of war and minister to Russia, he has enjoyed the repose of a political eagle, in rural retirement, but near enough to the centers of politics to keep in pleasant contact with the men in active life. OHIO REPUBLICANS.The State Convention Meets at Colum-

COLUMBUS, Ohio, June 26.—The Republi- can State convention met in the Metro- politan opera house with 528 delegates and over 1,000 spectators present. Congress- man McKinley's appearance as a delegate from the Eighteenth district was greeted with enthusiastic applause.

The Rev. Frank B. Marston of Colum- bus opened the convention with prayer. The Hon. W. C. Cooper presided tempo- rarily and addressed the convention. His remarks favoring civil service were not enthusiastically received. The mention of Gov. Foraker's name called forth an ex- pression from the convention that indi- cated the sentiment of the delegates on the probable nominee for Governor. Com- mittees were appointed and resolutions on the death of Mr. R. B. Hayes were adopted, after which the convention adjourned over night.

The following State Central committee was named:

Howard Ferris and George Moorlin of Hamilton, A. W. Kumbler of Montgomery, J. W. Hall of Allen, John M. Sheets of Putnam, M. P. Brewer of Wood, C. M. Harding of Warren, C. E. Gross of Pick- away, B. F. Presbiter of Delaware, J. Kent Hamilton of Lucas, J. S. Blackwell of Gallia, W. D. James of Pike, Fred W. Herlet of Franklin, W. S. Capeller of Richmond, Col. R. W. Jennings of Athens, William Miller of Muskingum, W. A. Hunt of Belmont, J. Whiting, Jr., of Stark, J. A. Allen of Lake, Charles K. Nell of Medina, A. L. Brinsmade of Cuyahoga.

Everything indicates that Gov. Foraker will be renominated, though a strong fight is being made against him. Gen. Ken- nedy, who has been considered the strong- est opposition candidate to Gov. Foraker, is losing ground on account of the labor argument which is being used against him. There is a disposition to try to push McKinley to the front in opposition to Foraker.
